

Pus leaks out of fungal toenail as woman rips it straight off

Comment

Kate Buck Monday 10 Sep 2018 8:48 pm

147 SHARES

If you're squeamish, look away now.

This is the moment an infected toenail is ripped away after leading to a gush of pus.

Miss Marion Yau, also known as Miss Foot Fixer, from the Harley Medical Foot and Nail Clinic, treated the oozing toenail with Acute Paronychia by cutting away the nail and allow the infected material to drain out.

It might look uncomfortable, but Miss Yau said the patient won't have felt much pain (Picture: Caters)

Paronychia is fungal nail disease that can form at the cuticle where the nail and skin meet.

It can affect either the hand or foot, and as shown, can get pretty gross.

Saddam Hussein has been put up for sale on Wish and he'll only cost you £15 »

Marion said: 'I was pretty excited because I knew that there was something underneath the nail but was very surprised that there was so much pus coming out.'

'They would have felt a little bit of pressure but not much pain and the treatment took around 20 minutes.'

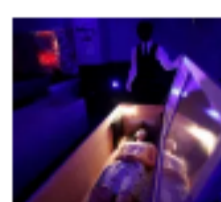

'This was the first case that I have seen this large amount of pus.'

Good news, the patient healed well after the procedure (Picture: Caters)

'We needed to cut the nail back to see where the puss can be released and at the same time I remove as much of the fungus as possible.'

'But it healed very well.'

Zombie horror show helps people 'unwind' from stresses of the pandemic »

The video shows her cutting down to the base of the nail where a hole appears, allowing the infection to leak out, before she flushes it out with a small water jet.

Fungal nail infections such as this are fairly common, and can make the nail turn yellow, become more brittle and eventually break.

Since Dr Pimple Popper took the world by storm and got her very own TV show, many people have been fascinated

But now Miss Foot Fixer is on the rise, and she is bringing you all the foot videos you never knew you needed.

Got a story for Metro.co.uk?

If you have a story for our news team, email us at webnews@metro.co.uk.

You can also follow us on Facebook and Twitter.

MUST READ

'Get back to work or risk losing your job', Brits warned

Labour said it was 'beggars belief that the Government are threatening people like this during a pandemic'. »

Woman sues easyJet after she was made to move seats because she's female

'It was the first time in my adult life that I was discriminated against for being a woman.' »

Portugal and Italy 'could be added to UK quarantine list within days'

It comes after cases of coronavirus in the two countries near the UK's acceptable level. »

Barrister says £465,000 legal aid for PC Harper's killers is 'price of fair legal system'

'In the UK 'everyone is on an even footing. If you're a rich defendant you don't just simply walk away and get off Scott-free.' »

UK set for 'coldest August bank holiday on record'

Temperatures in London will reach 19°C compared to 33°C last year. »

Donald Trump vows to make America even better than it is now if he's re-elected

President Trump heaped self-praise on himself as he accepted the Republican party's presidential nomination. »

Banksy pays for boat to rescue refugees in the Mediterranean

The vessel picked up 89 people in distress on Thursday, including 14 women and four children. »

Another nine people die with coronavirus bringing UK death toll to 41,486

The Department of Health and Social Care released the new figures this afternoon. »

'Biden will destroy America', says Trump at rally where social distancing was ignored

Donald Trump warned 'no one is safe in Biden's America' as he accepted the Republican nomination for president. »